Our philosophy is - and will always be to bring to the people products that have a real ability to help the daily requirements, in order to maintain and / or improve their fitness. Our production includes a range of products that can help people to control their weight: those products can be integrated with their diet, can be beneficial drinks to gladden their relax moments, and are produced with the treasures that the earth offers us, exclusively not GMO.

Being italian, I am proud to introduce you, in this catalogue, a set of products made in italian factories: that demonstrate you (in case you need it) that also in Italy we know how to do things well, and we do not need to import products from overseas. A particular attention was reserved to prices, that you will find very interesting: we tried to get affordable and accessible prices, while maintaining the same quality value that always must distinguish us.

Lastly, I personally invite you to follow the advice and support that our sales representative can give you. He is the person in charge of the communication with our costumers, and is just through him that we want to bring those products into the homes of all people. You can take advantage of the experience of our sales representative, who will follow you in your choices, with due care. You can also use the after-selling service, that our staff will provide free.

I thank you for choosing our products, and for the occasion I please you with my best regards.

The resources and effort that we put in having the product finished are often invisible from the outside, a very careful and complicated study to achieve the excellence is followed by a constant and analytical way, done by our technical scientific staff, which works to achieve a higher production quality standards and certifies the effectiveness of everything we bring to the market.

We aim and operate in every possible way for our customers well-being.

THREE CATEGORIES OF MICROORGANISMS

1. Pathogenic and putrefaction microorganisms
2. Regenerative and fermentative microorganisms
3. Opportunistic, neutral microorganisms

According to Prof. Higa there are only a few families of microorganisms that decide if in an environment must develop regenerative processes or degenerative processes. Most of microorganisms behaves like opportunistic, that is they always support the most numerous group.

In a neutral environment the report is balanced and no group is dominant. This situation is however very rare in nature, if appears, it is only for short time.

An unhealthy environment is dominated by pathogenic and putrefaction bacteria that attract the opportunistic by their part. This is the case of more grounds grown with a large use of herbicides and of synthetic fertilizers that destroy microorganisms.

In this situation, the pathogenic germs become stronger. The grounds are poor and permit the only growth of some weakly grown or sick. Consequently, in order to obtain a sure harvest you must use more fertilizers and herbicides.

This thing does not happen only in agriculture. Even also in our houses, and in all closed environments, the pathogenic microorganisms presence in air and on surfaces, as well as the use of chemical products for cleaning and of disinfectant, have favored the development of resistant pathogenic strains.

With the help of Bio Effective microorganisms, we can improve any environment: indeed, they do not have contraindications, do not cause allergies and are safe for humans and animals.

Pollution present in the interior of our housings, can be of 50 times more than external pollution.

This thing owes to some different factors: presence of dust, allergenic, mould, viruses, bacteria and chemical waste derived from use of detergents and of disinfectants.

Some people suffers from allergies, headaches, dermatitis that manifest especially in the interior of own housing or at work place. It is about of syndrome of sick building, pathology that in a rapid growth.

Besides, some chemical products cause bacteria resistance, thus making that the environment to become bacteriologically and chemically contaminated.

What can we do to return to a healthy environment?

Bio Effective microorganisms come in our help, controlling the pathogenic germs, the unpleasant smells, and the allergens and making that the environment become healthier and cleaner.
